ATTENTION SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS & QUICKBOOKS USERS

Over the past three days, the Dillon Police Department has received multiple reports from local business owners involving unauthorized withdrawals from business accounts. Some reported losses have exceeded $20,000.

Based on the information gathered so far, the activity may begin with a suspicious or unauthorized email. The withdrawal may appear in QuickBooks as a payment or direct deposit "to employees" and may even include the names of actual employees. However, the employees do not receive the funds. Instead, the money may be transferred to an unknown bank account.

Please remain diligent and carefully review all emails, payroll activity, direct deposits, bank transactions, and account changes. Do not click links or provide account information in response to unexpected emails. If you notice suspicious activity, contact your financial institution immediately and report the incident to law enforcement.

We will share additional information as it becomes available.

This press release was posted to the Dillon Police Departments Facebook page

The American Legion Post 20 Health Equipment Loan Program

The American Legion would like to thank the Dillon community for its amazing and continued support of the Health Equipment Loan program. Your donations are appreciated. All health equipment is available for anyone in need. You do not have to be a veteran.

As a reminder, it is the individual's responsibility to thoroughly clean the equipment prior to returning it. Recently we have had equipment dropped at our storage facility located near the Search & Rescue building, or at our meeting hall on Glendale Street with no contact information. Unless you notify a volunteer, or include your name on the equipment, it is impossible for us to know who returned it.

We ask that you please contact Jodie Jolly at 406-925-3563, Dick Jackson at 406-461-0325, Frank Allen at 406-660-7022, or Sharon Andersen at 406-660-1231 to assist with any returns.

Respectfully,
Mark McGinley, Commander, American Legion Post 20

KIDS Act takes freedom from all

by Charles Sauer

The House of Representatives recently passed the Kids Internet and Digital Safety (KIDS) Act, a combination of various pieces of legislation dealing with protecting children from online harms.

While the bill is supposed to protect children, it erodes online privacy for all users via a de facto requirement websites require users to verify their ages. Supporters of the bill dismiss this concern by pointing to the section stating that "nothing in [the bill] may be construed to require the provider of a covered platform to implement an age gating or age verification functionality on the covered platform."

However, the bill also requires website operators to provide protections such as message settings and other controls when the website or app "knows or should have known" that a user is a child or minor. The "should have known" standard opens websites and apps to liability if a judge, jury, or regulator determines they should have known a user was underage but failed to do due diligence to determine the user's age.

In order to escape being held liable under the "should have known" standard, social media platforms will simply require every user provide proof of age. Doing this will require the sites to collect personally identifying information like driver's licenses or passports. Some companies may even require facial scans or require that users allow a company to examine their browsing history to help verify age. This will open the door to violations of privacy by identity thieves and governments officials.

The damage to privacy is compounded by provisions requiring covered platforms to "establish, implement, maintain, and enforce" rules of conduct as well as content moderation policies.

Some of the content moderation and conduct rules are just common sense — such as forbidding violent threats or sexual exploitation. Others are problematic, such as the requirement platforms have polices monitoring and controlling discussions of issues like the sale and use of cannabis, tobacco, narcotics, and alcohol. The bill also requires platforms to restrict discussions about financial fraud. This may seem reasonable, but it could prevent minors from seeking advice over concerns a friend or family member is abusing drugs or alcohol, as well as questions about using cannabis for pain relief as an alternative to toxic and addictive opioids.

Forbidding minors from talking about financial fraud could prevent them from learning ways to protect themselves and their family from scams.

While the KIDS Act does not directly ban these conversations, it does incentivize social media platforms to apply stringent content moderation policies to discussions of these topics. This could lead companies to implement overly broad content moderation policies that would prevent minors from accessing information that would help them avoid many of the very same dangers the bill's supporters are trying to protect them from.

This would not be the first time that Congress has passed legislation regulating online speech which hurt the very people they were trying to help. In 2018. Congress passed the Allowing States and Victims to Fight Online Sex Trafficking Act. As the title suggests, the bill expanded federal censorship over online speech involving "sex work." However, the prohibitions were so broad that they affected those who advocated for and tried to help sex workers.

In addition, by incentivizing online platforms to remove forums with any discussions related to sex or sex work—a large number of useful forums were shut down. This deprived sex workers of the ability to use the internet to screen potential clients online by using "bad date" forms as well as a safe way to seek healthcare and other resources. Many even reported being forced to return to more dangerous street work.

None of this is to endorse sex work or deny that children face legitimate dangers online. It is to acknowledge that trying to address these problems through "one-size-fits-all" legislation creates new problems that harm the people Congress intends to protect. Fortunately, new legislation is not needed to protect children from the worst parts of the internet.

There are tools available that can help parents ensure their children are not exposed to anything inappropriate or dangerous online. These tools can help parents teach their children how to benefit from going online while avoiding the dangers of the web.

The best way to ensure children learn how to responsibly use the

Harrison men plead guilty to multiple wildlife violations in three Montana counties

Two men from Harrison were convicted of multiple hunting violations in Jefferson, Madison and Gallatin counties.

Jeremy Michael Hill and Ryan Francis McGuire faced several charges after the two men were found to have killed multiple deer illegally over several years.

Game wardens with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks conducted a yearlong investigation into Hill and McGuire following a report from a concerned witness about a wasted whitetail buck found in Hill's possession. The investigation revealed evidence that Hill, over a three-year period, killed multiple antlered deer each year. Hill also used hunting licenses issued to family members to tag illegally harvested deer.

McGuire aided and abetted Hill as they hunted deer from a vehicle after legal shooting hours.

Their charges included unlawful possession of a game animal, hunting or killing overlimit on deer, unlawful hunting from a public highway, unlawful hunting from a vehicle, unlawful use of equipment while hunting (spotlighting), waste of a game animal, failure to obtain landowner permission for hunting, and failing to validate a general deer license.

Hill was sentenced to a 36-month hunting and fishing privilege suspension and fines totaling $2,980. McGuire was sentenced to a 24-month privilege suspension and fines totaling $670. Montana is part of the interstate wildlife violator compact where violators who lose privileges in one state lose them in all 50 states.

Montana game wardens rely on members of the public being good witnesses in the field and reporting wildlife violations when they happen. Anyone with possible information about crimes against wildlife or state lands is encouraged to visit tipmont.mt.gov to provide details. You may be eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

Events planned at Missouri Headwaters and Madison Buffalo Jump state parks

A variety of events are coming up at Missouri Headwaters and Buffalo Jump state parks.

July 31, 10 a.m. – Volunteer Weed Pull – Join us as we work to keep Missouri Headwaters State Park looking great and safe for bats! We'll be pulling noxious weeds, including burdock, a weed that creates Velcro-like burs that trap and often kill bats. Bring work gloves, water and a snack, and meet us at the picnic area.

An event is also scheduled at Madison Buffalo Jump State Park.

Sept. 5, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. – Kite Festival at Madison Buffalo Jump State Park – Join us for a fun-filled day of making and flying kites. We'll have kite kits for sale, but feel free to bring your own kite. There's a lot to enjoy at this event: Native American art vendors, flint knapping demonstrations, a food truck by Vintage Nana's Indian Tacos, a drum circle by Many Hands Light Work at 12 p.m., a bison program by Billy Maxwell, and traditional Native American games.

For more information about Missouri Headwaters and Madison Buffalo Jump state parks and associated events, call 406-285-3610.

Veteran's Corner Update #575

By Mike Lawson

Veteran News Updates:

- For people with anxiety and PTSD, being alone with your thoughts is usually terrifying. Veterans are once again at the forefront for mental healthcare treatment. The VA is studying psychedelic-assisted therapy. Some Veterans have gone out of country to get this therapy and had positive results. Time will tell but it could be a game changer for those with PTSD.
- Reading from a Veteran news source; The Iran War is the most unpopular war ever. This war isn't just unpopular. From the beginning, it had the lowest support among Americans of any war in American history —and wars do not get more popular as time goes on.
- It's encouraging to see the federal government encouraging veterans to become truck drivers, especially those with experience of driving heavy military vehicles. The Department of Transportation is calling this initiative "Freedom Haulers". It highlights the skills veterans have developed durning their military service. For more information check this initiative out from the Department of Transportation.
- The latest scam concerning veterans: Fraud alert: Beware the "Veterans Saving Program" postcard scam. If you receive a suspicious postcard, email, text or call, do not call the number provided or click on any links. Always verify the sender's identity; when in doubt, call VA directly at 1-800-827-1000.
- Veteran Homelessness Decreased by 56% from 2010 to 2025.
- Just a little US Flag Information: Folding the flag 13 times is a ceremonial tradition where each fold carries symbolic meaning, honoring life, faith, the nation, and the military, while the final fold represents the national motto, "In God We Trust". The 13 folds reflects the original 13 colonies of the United States. The final folded triangle resembles the tricorn hats warn by soldiers of the Continental Army. For more information check the internet about the meaning of each fold. Very informative.
- End of life death benefits for veterans, who qualified for burial or headstone benefits, saw less than 50% usage in 2022. The VA wants to change that. In addition to this, only 20% of eligible Veterans were buried in a VA managed or supported cemetery. This is a benefit with no cost to the veteran's family. Check with the VA for more information.
