Beau Roy Bradley

Beau Roy Bradley passed away peacefully at home, surrounded by the comfort of those he loved, after a courageous battle with cancer.

Beau was born on January 25, 1952, in Dillon, Montana, to Ethel Mary Forrester and Alan Bradley. When he was an infant, the family moved to Missoula, where Beau spent his childhood exploring the wilds of the Rattlesnake alongside his brother, Alan, and sisters, Kay and Forey. Those early adventures fostered the deep love of Montana, the outdoors, and hard work that would shape the rest of his life.

Beau met the love of his life shortly after entering the halls of Hellgate High School. It wasn't until his senior year that he finally worked up the courage to ask Debra Rice on a date. That single invitation began a remarkable love story. Beau and Deb were married in October 1972 and shared more than five decades of love, partnership, and adventure.

The newlyweds spent their first year of marriage at Sierra Army Depot in Herlong, California, before returning to Missoula, where they welcomed their first daughter, Brooke.

Soon afterward, the young family moved to Bozeman, where Beau attended Montana State University, earning degrees in Business and Range Management while managing the Lazy J Ranch up Bridger Canyon. During his time at MSU, Beau served as Student Body President from 1977 to 1978 and developed a lifelong passion for Bobcat athletics. It was also during these years that he dreamed of one day owning a ranch of his own. While in Bozeman, Beau and Deb welcomed their second daughter, Alison.

Committed to fulfilling his dream, Beau and Deb moved to the West Coast where they spent the next fifteen years growing Sonitrol Pacific into one of the nation's premier security companies. They welcomed Beau Roy II in 1981, followed by their caboose, Kendall, I 1983. Under Beau's leadership, the company was recognized among the Top 100 Security Firms in the country, ranking No. 54 in 1999 and growing to No. 26 by 2024. Beau was an inspiring leader whose vision, work ethic, and integrity earned the respect of employees and colleagues alike. More important than the company's success were the relationships he built. When he sold the business in November 2024, many of his key employees had worked alongside him for more than forty years—a testament to the loyalty, trust, and family culture he cultivated.

In 1993, Beau's lifelong dream became a reality when he returned to Montana to establish Bradley Livestock in the Ruby Valley. What started as a small herd grew into a respected and successful livestock operation through thoughtful stewardship, sound management, and unwavering determination. Beau often joked that he never did anything unless it "penciled out" economically—with one notable exception: flying.

While ranching fulfilled his dream, aviation was his passion. Beau loved nothing more than taking to the skies, and he used that passion to serve others. As a volunteer pilot for Angel Flight, he flew countless missions, transporting patients and families in need with generosity and compassion.

Beau believed deeply in giving back. He was a devoted supporter of Montana State University and Bobcat Football for decades, an active Rotarian, and a passionate advocate for introducing young people to aviation through the Young Eagles program. He also generously supported the communities of Twin Bridges and Sheridan, freely giving his time, leadership, and resources whenever they were needed.

Above all else, Beau's greatest joy was his family. While Deb was the love of his life, his ten grandchildren were his greatest pride. Whether in a volleyball gym, on a basketball court, football field, soccer pitch, baseball diamond, or rodeo arena, Beau rarely missed an opportunity to cheer them on. His unmistakable "hoo-ooo!" could be heard echoing through gyms and stadiums across Montana. He celebrated every accomplishment, both on the field and in the classroom, and told anyone who would listen about the remarkable young people his grandchildren were becoming.

Beau is survived by his beloved wife, Debra Rice Bradley; his children, Brooke (Gavin) Murphy, Alison (Joe) Curnow, Beau Bradley, Kendall (Ryan) Keltz; his grandchildren, Max, Bella, Connor, Brighton, Carter, Gage, Brody, Tenley, Teegan, and Berklee; and his siblings, Kay (Bob) Sheridan, Alan (Judy) Bradley, and Forey (Dan) Cederberg. He is preceded in death by his parents.

Beau's life was defined by faith, family, friendship, hard work, generosity, and an unwavering love for Montana. Whether in the boardroom, on horseback, in the cockpit, or cheering from the sidelines, he lived with purpose and left every place—and every person—better than he found them. His legacy will live on in the family he cherished, the businesses he built, the land he stewarded, and the countless lives he touched.

The funeral service will be on August 9 at 2:00 pm at the Round Barn in Twin Bridges.

Whole Food Health MinuteRaspberries

We harvested our first handful of the season this morning, and I'm sure many of you are doing the same. These delicate, delicious, and antioxidant-rich berries are always a welcome treat.

Once planted, raspberry canes are enthusiastic growers, continuing to proliferate year after year, with berries arriving on the second-year canes. They love full sun and appreciate consistent, even watering to really thrive. I highly recommend growing your own, since their delicate nature makes shelf life pretty short — and you can't beat the flavor fresh off the cane.

You'll find traditional red varieties and many other colors now available to plant. All are prized for their high vitamin C content and antioxidant profile — a duo that helps keep inflammation and free radical damage in check. Vitamin C is also essential for the body's own collagen production, which means eating vitamin C-rich foods contributes to soft, supple skin and happy, resilient joints, tendons, and ligaments.

From a functional wellness lens, raspberries bring a little more to the table, too: they're packed with fiber (great for gut health and steady blood sugar), rich in manganese (a mineral your body uses for bone health and energy metabolism), and loaded with polyphenols (plant compounds) that work alongside vitamin C to further calm oxidative stress and inflammation.

Enjoy them fresh on their own as a lovely snack any time of day, or toss them into yogurt, salads, or anything that could use a pop of color and brightness.

Good health is built day by day, starting with real food.

Historic Military Vehicle Convoy Rolls Through Dillon on Lewis and Clark-Inspired Journey

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Tuesday morning, residents along Highway 41 were treated to a unique sight as a convoy of historic military vehicles slowly made its way from Twin Bridges to Dillon for a brief stop before continuing west.

The convoy is organized by the Military Vehicle Preservation Association (MVPA), a group dedicated to preserving and sharing historic military transportation. This year's journey takes participants across North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, and Oregon, retracing as much of the Lewis and Clark Expedition route as possible while traveling primarily on backroads and secondary highways.

The annual convoy also pays tribute to the historic 1909 military vehicle convoy, an early test to determine whether military vehicles could successfully travel across the country. Each year, the MVPA selects a different route, giving participants the opportunity to experience America's history while sharing their restored vehicles with communities along the way.

The convoy features a wide variety of privately owned and meticulously restored military vehicles, drawing attention from motorists and local residents as it passed through Southwest Montana.

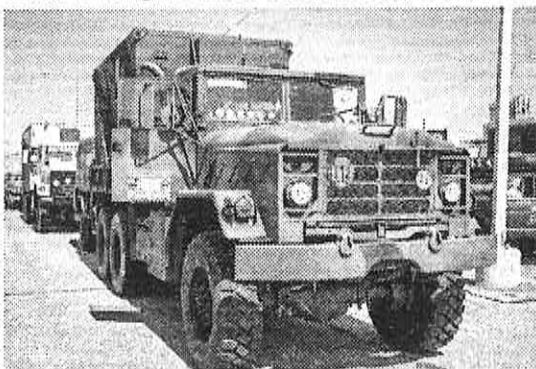

According to the MVPA, its convoys are designed to bring together military vehicle enthusiasts for memorable adventures while preserving an important piece of transportation and military history.

"Imagine taking your restored historic military vehicle on an adventure with other enthusiasts! Be it a day trip, across the country (or continent!), or through the Alaskan wilderness, MVPA Affiliates host convoys and trail rides throughout the year that provide enjoyment for collectors and their families," the organization states.

In addition to regional trail rides, the MVPA has organized several historic long-distance expeditions, including the 2009 Transcontinental Convoy, which reenacted the famous 1919 U.S. Army cross-country motor convoy, and the 2012 Alaska (ALCAN) Highway Convoy.

The Military Vehicle Preservation Association is the world's largest organization dedicated to historic military vehicles, with approximately 3,500 members and nearly 80 affiliate groups across the United States and around the world.

Founded in 1976 as the Military Vehicle Collectors Club with fewer than 100 members, the organization has grown significantly over the past five decades. It officially became the Military Vehicle Preservation Association in 1990 and continues its mission of promoting, preserving, restoring, sharing, and enjoying historic military transportation.

Today, the MVPA continues to host annual conventions, educational programs, publications, and convoys that allow members to showcase their vehicles while sharing military transportation history with communities across North America.

Those interested in following this year's convoy or learning more about the organization can visit the Military Vehicle Preservation Association Convoy Facebook page for updates throughout the journey.

Sign ups start May 1st make sure you reserve your child's spot today and be guaranteed a spot!

Adventures in After School Program

This program starts in September and gives participants a more in depth programming while giving parents flexibility to fit work schedules. Children in K-5th grade are eligible to join. Camp will end at 5:30pm each day. Camps will be offered all school year long with the exception of school holidays.
